AnsaldoBreda reorganizes its North American operation...

Pittsburg, CA 1/11/07 – AnsaldoBreda, Inc. is pleased to announce reorganization of its North American operation. According to Giancarlo Fantappiè, president of AnsaldoBreda, Inc., “this next phase in the reorganization of our company is aimed at consolidating critical functions, advancing our transition to a fully integrated profit center, and strengthening our competitive position in North America. These changes will coincide with the move of our company headquarters to California on January 15, 2007 and consolidate all responsibility in two core areas including strategy & growth and operations management.”

- Michael P. Pracht, Executive Vice President, will assume broader responsibility for all regional marketing, sales, and business development activities including strategy, proposals, customer care, industry/government relations and corporate governance.
- Michael A. Loundes, Vice President & General Manager Operations, will continue with current responsibility for all of the Company’s project activities, including production, facilities management, engineering, purchasing, operations, budget control, overhaul, service, maintenance and spare parts.
